Selection process

Institutions will make their Equity Scholarships offers as a result of applications submitted as part of a competitive application process.

The Equity Scholarships Online application is designed to gather sufficient information from applicants to determine which applicants best meet the eligibility criteria.

Equity Scholarships applications will be assessed based on the information provided in the application and supporting documentation. This means:

- institutions will award CS to Indigenous applicants who best meet the Government's eligibility requirements – see pages 49–50. They may also consider other educational disadvantages, for example, long-term medical conditions – see page 9.
- institutions will award IES to applicants who best meet the eligibility requirements for the IES. Check pages 11–48 for eligibility requirements for each scholarship.

Offer process

Equity Scholarships outcomes will be available at www.uac.edu.au/equity/ on Thursday 19 January 2012.

To access your application outcome you'll need your Equity Scholarships application number and Equity Scholarships PIN.

UAC will notify you in writing of the outcome of your application by Wednesday 25 January 2012.

Scholarship offers by University of Technology, Sydney (UTS)

UTS will make offers directly to successful applicants for four of their Equity Scholarships:

- UTS Vice-Chancellor's Merit Scholarship
- Erik Dreikurs Scholarship
- John Heine Memorial Foundation Women in Engineering Scholarship
- Linden Little Equity Scholarship.

For details see UTS scholarship entries, pages 42–46.

Offer material

If your application for an Equity Scholarship is successful, you'll receive material provided by the institution making the scholarship offer, with your offer letter.

Your offer material will include details about the scholarship you've been awarded together with details of the institution's requirements for accepting the offer.

When you accept an Equity Scholarship offer and it's for longer than one year, you must agree to provide personal information relevant to assessing your ongoing eligibility to the institution on request.

Your Equity Scholarship offer is made on the condition that you're eligible to receive an Equity Scholarship on your first census date for the scholarship period.

Institutions will confirm your eligibility before payment is made.

Deferment

Initial deferment of an Equity Scholarship is not permitted by any participating institution.

Students awarded an Equity Scholarship who defer the start of their studies or who withdraw from their course before their first census date will forfeit their Equity Scholarship. Students may re-apply for a scholarship if they start studies at the institution at a later date.

Termination of an Equity Scholarship

If the Equity Scholarship you've been awarded is for longer than one year, it will be terminated if:

- you cease to meet the eligibility requirements for your Equity Scholarship, or
- the maximum duration of the Equity Scholarship has been reached (if applicable), or
- you've failed to make satisfactory academic progress as defined by the institution, or
- you've committed serious misconduct (eg provided false or misleading information), or
- you don't resume study at the end of an approved interruption to study period.

Grievance procedures

Grievances will be resolved in accordance with the relevant institution policies.

Institution Equity Scholarships (IES)

Value and duration of IES

The value and duration of the scholarships awarded by institutions differ. Check each institution's entry for details, see pages 11–48.

IES and income support payments

IES were exempt from the Social Security and Veterans' Affairs income tests from Friday 1 January 2010.

IES and taxation

If you're a student receiving full-time education at a school, college or university, your scholarship will be exempt from taxation subject to certain exceptions, see Income Tax Assessment Act 1997, section 51–10(2.1A).

The Australian Taxation Office's website provides information regarding scholarships and tax, including a tool to help you check whether your scholarship is tax exempt. Visit www.ato.gov.au and enter 'scholarships' in the search facility in the top right-hand corner of the page.

For further information, contact the ATO enquiry line on 13 28 61.

Eligibility

The eligibility requirements for IES vary between institutions and schemes. Check each institution's entry for details.

Being eligible doesn't guarantee a scholarship

Meeting the scholarship eligibility criteria doesn't guarantee that you'll be awarded a scholarship. There are a limited number of Equity Scholarships and there are more applicants than scholarships. As part of a competitive application process, applicants are ranked against the eligibility criteria and institutions award scholarships to applicants who best meet the eligibility criteria.

If you're unsuccessful it doesn't mean that you're not in need; rather, it means that there are other applicants who've been assessed as being in greater need.

Indigenous Australian applicants – Evidence of Aboriginality

If you're an Australian Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander, you must provide evidence of your Aboriginality by one of the methods detailed below:

- 1 provision of your Centrelink Customer Reference Number (CRN) to enable UAC to confirm that you're currently receiving ABSTUDY, or
- 2 if you don't provide your CRN or aren't receiving ABSTUDY, you must complete the 'Declaration' – declaring you an Australian Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander. You can complete the declaration when you apply online for Equity Scholarships.

If your Aboriginality is questioned, you'll be asked to provide further evidence.

Payments

If you're awarded an IES, the institution will provide details of how payments will be made.

Ongoing eligibility requirements

If the IES you've been awarded is for longer than one year, in order to maintain ongoing eligibility for your IES you must:

- maintain satisfactory academic progress, according to your institution's policy
- continue to meet eligibility requirements relevant to the IES awarded to you and provide documentary evidence to support your ongoing eligibility when requested.

It's your responsibility to advise your institution of any changes to your circumstances that would make you ineligible for your IES.

For IES paid bi-annually, institutions will review and verify your ongoing eligibility for your IES twice a year, before payment in each half of the year.

Approved leave

Institutions may approve requests from students to retain their IES when they are on approved leave – check each institution's entry, see pages 11–48.

Provision of false information

If UAC or any participating NSW or ACT institution knows or has reason to believe that a student in receipt of an IES has provided false or misleading information, UAC, on behalf of the institution/s, is required to re-assess the student's entitlement to the IES. UAC must then notify the relevant institution of the suspected offence and provide the institution with a copy of the student's application and any other relevant information requested by the institution.

Table 2: Descriptions of educational disadvantage

Institutions make their Equity Scholarship offers as a result of a competitive application process which takes into consideration the Commonwealth's eligibility requirements for Commonwealth scholarships, any specific eligibility requirements for individual IES and the educational disadvantages described below.

You must print your Scholarship Document Package when you have submitted your equity scholarship application; your Scholarship Document Package will detail any documentary evidence you need to provide to UAC to support your application.

Carer responsibilities

A carer is defined as a person of any age who, without being paid, cares for another person who needs ongoing support because of a long-term medical condition, a mental illness, a disability, frailty or the need for palliative care. A carer:

- may or may not be a family member and may or may not live with the person they care for
- may be in receipt of a Centrelink Carer Allowance or Carer Payment.

Volunteers under the auspices of a voluntary organisation are not included.

Evidence of carer responsibilities

Applicants claiming carer responsibilities must provide one (only) of the following types of evidence:

- if you are receiving Carer Payment or Carer Allowance, your Centrelink Customer Reference Number (CRN) in your equity scholarship online application
or
- an independent statement to support your eligibility for carer responsibilities, completed and signed by a responsible person who knows your circumstances.

Sole parent responsibilities

A sole parent is defined as a person of any age who is single and has at least one child, under 18, who is wholly or primarily in their care and who is in Australia.

Evidence of sole parent responsibilities

Applicants claiming sole parent responsibilities must provide one (only) of the following types of evidence:

- if you are receiving Parenting Payment Single, your Centrelink Customer Reference Number (CRN) in your equity scholarship online application
or
- an independent statement to support your eligibility for sole parent responsibilities, completed and signed by a responsible person who knows your circumstances.

Financial hardship

A person is considered to be experiencing financial hardship where they are:

- a) receiving a Centrelink (or other Commonwealth) means-tested income support payment (such as a Disability Support Pension, Parenting Payment Single, Carer Payment etc.)
or
- b) expecting to receive a Centrelink (or other Commonwealth) means-tested income support payment by the census date of the first semester of study in 2012
or
- c) able to provide comprehensive information demonstrating exceptional financial hardship.

Evidence of financial hardship

Equity Scholarship applicants can claim one (only) of the above categories of Financial hardship.

Applicants claiming financial hardship, must provide one (only) of the following types of evidence; the type of evidence you must provide relates directly to the category of financial hardship you've claimed:

- a) provision of your Centrelink Customer Reference Number (CRN) in your equity scholarship online application
or
- b) no documentation is required to support eligibility for the expectation of receipt of a means-tested payment, when you submit an equity scholarship application; applicants will be required to verify their receipt of an allowance to their institution after enrolment and prior to payment of an equity scholarship
or
- c) documentation provided to support eligibility for exceptional financial hardship must demonstrate a level of real and enduring financial hardship. Applicants who are eligible to claim a Centrelink means-tested allowance but choose not to claim are not eligible for exceptional financial hardship. Applicants whose family income is above the Centrelink eligibility threshold are generally not eligible for exceptional financial hardship.

English language difficulty

A person is considered to be experiencing English language difficulty:

- if they experience difficulties due to their non-English background that affects their ability to study at university
and
- they came to Australia from a non-English speaking country in 2007 or later
and
- didn't previously undertake any formal education at an institution where the language of instruction was English
and
- haven't undertaken two or more years of full-time study in Australia in a diploma, advanced diploma, bachelor degree or higher level award.

Evidence of English language difficulty

You'll be asked to provide:

- details of the studies you have undertaken
and
- a verified copy of your first immigration visa. If your current immigration visa specifies a different residency visa from that specified on your first, attach verified copies of both
and
- a statement of attendance from an Intensive English Centre (if applicable).

Indigenous Australian

A person will be considered to be an Indigenous person if the person:

1. is of Australian Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander descent
or
2. identifies as an Australian Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander
or
3. is accepted as an Australian Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander in the community in which he/she lives or has lived.

Evidence of Aboriginality

If you're an Australian Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander, you must provide evidence of your Aboriginality by one of the following:

- provision of your Centrelink Customer Reference Number (CRN) so UAC can confirm you currently receive ABSTUDY
or
- by the correct completion of a Declaration – Australian Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander. At the end of your Equity Scholarships Online application you will print this declaration if your answers indicate that you may need to complete and return the declaration.

 If your Aboriginality is questioned you'll be asked to provide further evidence if and when this occurs.

Long-term medical condition/disability or ongoing effects of abuse

A person is considered to be experiencing a long-term medical condition/disability or ongoing effects of abuse if their ability to study at university is being affected, or is likely to be affected by the long-term and ongoing effects of:

- a severe and long-term or a severe and recurrent medical/psychiatric condition or illness
or
- a learning, sensory, physical, psychological or other disability/disorder
or
- abuse (eg domestic violence, emotional abuse, psychological abuse, incest, ritual abuse, sexual abuse, or torture).

Evidence of long-term medical condition/disability or ongoing effects of abuse

You will be asked to provide:

- a *Medical Impact Statement (MIS), completed by a registered health professional who is treating you for your condition
and
- an *Educational Impact Statement (EIS), completed by a responsible person who can comment on the educational impact on your studies.

*see 'Common terms and abbreviations' on page 60 for more information about these documents.

Refugee status (disrupted schooling)

A person's schooling may have been disrupted as a result of their refugee status.

Institutions may use this criterion in conjunction with other demonstrated disadvantages in awarding their Institution Equity Scholarships.

Evidence of Refugee status (disrupted schooling)

You'll be asked to provide:

- details of the missed periods of school due to your refugee status
and
- a verified copy of your visa showing refugee status; or a verified copy of your Red Cross or UNHCR registration if you arrived in Australia on a non-refugee visa; or a verified copy of your document for travelling to Australia.

Regional or remote disadvantage for non-Indigenous applicants

A non-Indigenous person will be considered to have experienced a regional or remote disadvantage if they can show that within the two years immediately prior to the start of their current or proposed course of higher education study they lived in a regional or remote area of Australia for at least 12 months.

Regional or remote classification

Your permanent residence postcode(s) will be used to assess whether you lived in a regional or remote area of Australia.

The Australian Standard Geographic Classification Remoteness Areas (ASGC RA) classification system will be used to determine the categorisation of postcodes as per the following structure:

- RA1 – Major Cities of Australia
- RA2 – Inner Regional Australia
- RA3 – Outer Regional Australia
- RA4 – Remote Australia
- RA5 – Very Remote Australia

Visit the Australian Standard Geographic Classification Remoteness Areas (ASGC AR) classification system at: www.doctorconnect.gov.au/

You can use this tool as a guide for your postcode. All categories other than Major City will be considered to be regional or remote.

Evidence of regional or remote disadvantage for non-Indigenous applicants

You'll be asked to provide documentary evidence substantiating your residence in a regional or remote area of Australia, for a period of at least 12 months in the two years immediately prior to the start of your current or proposed higher education course of study. Documents must be in your name.

Regional or remote disadvantage for Indigenous applicants

An Indigenous person will be considered to have experienced a regional or remote disadvantage if they can show that within the four years immediately before the start of higher education study, they either:

1. lived in a regional or remote area of Australia for at least three years
or
2. completed the final two years of schooling in a high school or college in a regional or remote area of Australia (while residing in a regional or remote area of Australia)
or
3. moved away from a regional or remote area of Australia to complete the whole or the majority of secondary schooling at a high school or college in a major city
or
4. lived in a regional or remote area of Australia for at least two years, and relocated to a major city to undertake vocational education training (eg TAFE) for a maximum of two years duration immediately preceding their current or proposed course of study.

In addition to one of the above:

- it was necessary to move from the regional or remote area of Australia in order to undertake their higher education study or it was necessary to remain in a major city in order to undertake their higher education study
and

- as a result of the move will incur/has incurred additional accommodation costs
and

- the person is/will be enrolled as an internal student.

Regional or remote classification

Your permanent residence postcode will be used in the first instance to assess whether you have relocated from a regional or remote area.

The Commonwealth Scholarships Guidelines advise that the Australian Standard Geographic Classification Remoteness Areas (ASGC RA) classification system be used as a guide for the following:

- RA1 – Major Cities of Australia
- RA2 – Inner Regional Australia
- RA3 – Outer Regional Australia
- RA4 – Remote Australia
- RA5 – Very Remote Australia.

The Commonwealth Scholarships Guidelines (Education) 2010 advises:

“A provider must deem a student ineligible if they have come from a locality belonging to the Major City classification (RA 1)”.

Visit the Australian Standard Geographic Classification Remoteness Areas (ASGC AR) classification system at: www.doctorconnect.gov.au/

You can use this tool as a guide for your postcode.

Internal student

You should normally be enrolled as an internal student to be deemed eligible for CAS unless you can demonstrate that there are exceptional circumstances preventing you from doing so, including, but not limited to:

- the need for you to attend classes or access other study related facilities on the campus at which you're enrolled with the eligible scholarship provider or a host provider approved by the eligible scholarship provider through a cross-institutional arrangement
- the distance from your home to the relevant campus
- the availability and quality of transport infrastructure between your home and the relevant campus
- limitations on your mobility due to disability and/or carer responsibilities.

Components of study undertaken overseas or through cross-institutional arrangements

Students who undertake a component of their course (a) overseas or (b) with an institution that has been approved by their institution, won't be precluded from accessing their scholarship if it is approved by their institution and will count towards the course requirements in which the student is enrolled. Students who undertake a component of their study overseas won't be precluded from accessing the scholarship whilst overseas.

Evidence of regional or remote disadvantage for Indigenous applicants

You'll be asked to provide documents as proof of your address in a regional or remote area for each of the four years immediately before the start of your higher education course of study. Documents must be in your name.

The University of Western Sydney (UWS) has a proud tradition of broadening access to education for the residents of Greater Western Sydney. One of its main features is a multi-campus teaching base that ensures higher education is both accessible to students and responsive to their work, family and lifestyle commitments.

Opportunity, excellence and access continues to be a core commitment, strengthened by the University's philosophy of ensuring that individuals and groups who might not otherwise enjoy the benefits of higher education, have the opportunity to do so. It is with this in mind that UWS remains dedicated to making higher education accessible for those most in need of assistance.

The University's 'Making the Difference' scholarship initiative has been developed specifically for people who might otherwise face obstacles to gaining a university education: prospective and current UWS students with outstanding academic ability from disadvantaged financial backgrounds, students from rural and regional backgrounds, students with a disability, mature-age students and Indigenous students.

- will be allocated to eligible applicants on a competitive basis
- don't need to be repaid.

CS information in this booklet is based on the Commonwealth Scholarships Guidelines. Go to the following link for more information: <http://www.deewr.gov.au/highereducation/programs/student-support/commonwealth-scholarships/>

Evidence of Aboriginality

If you're an Australian Aboriginal or a Torres Strait Islander, you must provide evidence of your Aboriginality by one of the methods below:

1 provision of your Centrelink Customer Reference Number (CRN) to enable UAC to confirm that you are currently receiving ABSTUDY

OR

2 by the correct completion of the 'Declaration' – Australian Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander. At the end of your Equity Scholarships Online application you will print this declaration if your answers indicate that you may need to complete and return this declaration.

If your Aboriginality is questioned, you'll be asked to provide further evidence.

Additional requirements for Indigenous–CAS and Indigenous Enabling–CAS Scholarships

CAS are open to:

- commencing and continuing Indigenous students from regional and remote areas of Australia who have a demonstrated current financial hardship
- and
- who had to (or will have to) relocate to undertake their current higher education course of study.

In addition to the basic eligibility requirements for a CS, to be eligible for a CAS you must also meet the following four requirements:

- 1 It was, or will be, necessary for you to:
 - a) move from a regional or remote area of Australia (see Regional or remote classification below) to be able to undertake your higher education study,
 - or
 - b) remain in a major city in order to undertake your higher education study, if you moved away from a regional or remote area of Australia to complete all or most of your secondary schooling at a high school or college in a major city.
- 2 You've incurred, or will incur, additional accommodation costs as a result of having to move.
- 3 In 2012, you'll be enrolled as an internal student ¹, unless you can demonstrate the need to move ².
- 4 Within the four years immediately preceding the commencement of your current higher education course of study ³ you must have satisfied one of the following four requirements:
 - a) lived in a regional or remote area of Australia for at least three years,
 - or
 - b) completed your final two years of schooling in a high school or college in a regional or remote area of Australia,
 - or
 - c) moved away from a regional or remote area of Australia to complete all or most of your secondary schooling at a high school or college in a major city; and it was/will be necessary for you to remain in a major city in order to undertake your course of study,
 - or
 - d) lived in a regional or remote area of Australia for a total of at least two years, and you relocated from the regional or remote area of Australia to undertake vocational education and training (eg TAFE) for a maximum of two years' duration immediately preceding the commencement of your undergraduate course.

- 1 An internal student is a student who, for the majority of units of study in which they're enrolled in the scholarship period, is required to attend regular classes on campus.
- 2 For the purpose of determining the necessity for you to move, you should normally be enrolled as an internal student to be deemed eligible for CAS unless you can demonstrate that there are exceptional circumstances preventing you from doing so, including, but not limited to the following:
 - a) the need for you to attend classes or access other study-related facilities on the campus at which you're enrolled with the eligible scholarship provider or a host provider approved by the eligible scholarship provider through a cross-institutional arrangement
 - b) the distance from your home to the relevant campus
 - c) the availability and quality of transport infrastructure between your home and the relevant campus
 - d) limitations on your mobility due to disability and/or carer responsibilities.
- 3 In this context 'current higher education course of study' means:
 - for continuing students – the course in which you are currently enrolled and intend to enrol in for Semester 1, 2012
 - for commencing students – the course to which you have applied for admission and intend to enrol in for Semester 1, 2012.

Regional or remote classification

Your permanent residence postcode will be used in the first instance to assess whether you've relocated from a regional or remote area.

The CS guidelines advise that the Australian Standard Geographic Classification Remoteness Areas (ASGC RA) classification system be used as a guide for the following:

- RA1 – Major Cities of Australia
- RA2 – Inner Regional Australia
- RA3 – Outer Regional Australia
- RA4 – Remote Australia
- RA5 – Very Remote Australia.

The Commonwealth Scholarships Guidelines advise that:

A provider must deem a student ineligible if they have come from a locality belonging to the Major City classification (RA1).

The Australian Standard Geographic Classification Remoteness Areas (ASGC RA) classification system can be accessed at: www.doctorconnect.gov.au/

You can use this tool as a guide for your postcode.

CS for Indigenous applicants – payments and conditions

Components of study undertaken overseas or through cross-institutional arrangements

Students who undertake a program of study (a) overseas or (b) with an institution that's been approved by their institution through a cross-institutional arrangement as a Commonwealth-supported student, won't be precluded from accessing the scholarship during this period, so long as the program of study is approved by their institution and will count towards the course requirements in which the student is enrolled. Students must continue to meet scholarship eligibility requirements during this period.

Transfer of a CS to another institution

If you hold a CS at one institution, apply for and receive an offer of admission to a different institution, your CS won't be automatically transferred.

You must apply through UAC where you'll be assessed for a CS in accordance with each institution's selection criteria. An institution may award a CS for the remainder of the duration of your CS.

If you've received part of a CS at another institution you must declare any previous CS support you've received when you accept your CS for semester 1, 2012.

Payments

Indigenous–CECS and Indigenous–CAS

Your institution will make payments directly to you as soon as practicable after the first census date (set by each institution). You'll receive 50 per cent of the total annual value of the CS in each six-month period.

Indigenous Enabling–CECS and Indigenous Enabling–CAS

Your institution will make payments directly to you. You'll receive 50 per cent of the value of the scholarship as soon as practicable after your first course-start date. You'll receive the remaining 50 per cent in the six-month period following your first course-start date, provided you meet all of the eligibility criteria.

If you enrol in an enabling course that is six-months or less in duration, you'll only receive 50 per cent of the value of the scholarship.

Ongoing eligibility requirements

In order to maintain ongoing eligibility for your CS you must:

- maintain satisfactory academic progress, according to your institution's policy
- continue to meet eligibility requirements described in 'Table 3: Basic eligibility requirements for CS for Indigenous applicants' page 50 as relevant to the CS awarded to you and provide documentary evidence to support your ongoing eligibility when requested.

It's your responsibility to advise your institution of any changes to your circumstances that would make you ineligible for your CS.

Approved leave

Institutions may approve requests from students to retain their CS when they're on approved leave – check 'Table 4: CS for Indigenous Applicants – institution policies for approved leave' on page 53.

Provision of false information

If UAC or any participating institution knows or has reason to believe that a student receiving a CS has provided false or misleading information, UAC, on behalf of the institution/s, is required to re-assess the student's entitlement to the CS. Also, UAC must notify the Department of Education, Employment and Workplace Relations (DEEWR) of the suspected offence and provide DEEWR with a copy of the student's application and any other relevant information requested by DEEWR.

Being eligible, doesn't guarantee a scholarship

Meeting the scholarship eligibility criteria doesn't guarantee that you'll be awarded a scholarship. There are limited Equity Scholarships and there are more applicants than scholarships. As part of a competitive application process, you're ranked against the eligibility criteria, and institutions award scholarships to applicants who best meet the eligibility criteria.

If you're unsuccessful it doesn't mean that you're not in need; rather, it means that there are other applicants who've been assessed as being in greater need.

Table 5: Commonwealth Scholarships for Indigenous students in an eligible enabling course Commonwealth Scholarships are available to Indigenous students applying to or enrolled in an eligible enabling course. These scholarships are referred to as Indigenous Enabling-CECS and Indigenous Enabling-CAS.

Five institutions are offering these scholarships through UAC in semester 1, 2012; see table below for the institutions and their eligible enabling courses.

You'll be considered for these scholarships for the 2012 main scholarship offer round:

- if you're currently enrolled in an eligible enabling course and you meet the eligibility requirements described in 'Table 3: Basic eligibility requirements for CS for Indigenous applicants' on page 50

or

- if you're applying for, and receive an offer to, an eligible enabling course listed below that is open for semester 1, 2012 admission and you meet the eligibility requirements described in 'Table 3: Basic eligibility requirements for CS for Indigenous applicants' on page 50.

An eligible enabling course is as defined in Schedule 1 of the Higher Education Support Act 2003, plus it must:

- be at least 10 weeks long
- provide a pathway into an undergraduate course.

It must not be aimed at fast-tracking an undergraduate degree.

Part-time enabling course

Students can enrol on a part-time basis in an eligible, enabling course, subject to approval by the institution. However:

- they'll only be eligible to be considered for an Indigenous-CECS; they won't be eligible to receive an IAS or an Indigenous-CAS
- they won't automatically be entitled to receive an Indigenous-CECS but are subject to a competitive process as are other eligible, commencing students.

General information – FAQs

What's a Centrelink (or other Commonwealth) means-tested income support payment?

Centrelink (or other Commonwealth) means-tested income support payments are subject to an income and assets test.

Check www.centrelink.gov.au/internet/internet.nsf/payments/pay_iat.htm for information about Centrelink (or other Commonwealth) means-tested income support payments.

Note: Family Tax Benefit Part A and Part B are not income and assets tested payments.

How can I maximise my chances of getting a scholarship?

Complete all questions relevant to you in Equity Scholarships (ES) Online. After you've submitted your application:

- print your confirmation of application and check it carefully. If you have made a mistake in your application, email equity@uac.edu.au
- print your Scholarship Document Package, which will be automatically produced if you have to provide supporting documents
- provide your supporting documents within seven working days of submitting your ES online.

For example, if you mention in your application that you have a long-term medical condition or disability, you must submit correctly verified copies of documents confirming these circumstances.

What does 'correctly verified' mean?

See pages 56–57 for information about how to correctly verify your documents.

Why do I need to provide so many documents?

It's necessary to provide the documents requested:

- to verify that you're eligible
- to assist in ranking your application in relation to other applications.

The requirements of my course mean that I have to study overseas for part of the course. Can I still receive my scholarship payment whilst I'm overseas?

Yes. As long as the overseas component is approved by your institution and it counts towards the requirements of the course you're enrolled in.

Why are there two definitions of regional and remote disadvantage?

One definition is for Commonwealth Scholarships for Indigenous applicants, funded by the Australian Government (see page 10) and is set by the government in the Commonwealth Scholarship Guidelines.

The other definition is for non-Indigenous applicants being considered for Institution Equity Scholarships (IES) which are funded by individual institutions. Institutions have agreed on a separate definition of 'regional' and 'remote' disadvantage for non-Indigenous applicants. (see page 9).

How do I get an Equity Scholarship (ES) application number and PIN?

Your ES application number and PIN are automatically generated as part of the ES online application immediately after you've entered your personal details and contact information. A pop-up box will appear displaying your application number and PIN.

You must make a note of these numbers, as you will need them to access the outcome of your scholarship application.

I have missed the seven-day deadline for submitting my supporting documents – what can I do?

UAC will make very effort to assess all supporting documentation submitted before institutions make their scholarship offers, but cannot guarantee the assessment of documents submitted outside the required time frame.

I'm not currently receiving a Centrelink means-tested income support payment but expect to receive one in the near future – can I still apply for financial hardship?

Yes, you should apply under the Predicted means-tested income support section of the ES online application if you expect to receive an income support payment either, on or before the relevant Census date for the institution at which you're/you'll be enrolled.

Providing documents – FAQs

Do I need to provide any documents with my application?

- You must supply documentary evidence where requested within seven working days of submitting your Equity Scholarships Online application.
- If you don't supply complete and correctly verified documentation within seven working days of applying, your application won't be assessed.
- You must send verified copies of documents.

Photocopies

So that your ES application can be assessed correctly, ensure that all photocopied documents that you submit are:

- legible
- easy to read, especially visas and stamps with dates
- correctly verified.

I have documents from overseas. What do I need to provide?

If your official documents aren't in English, you must supply verified copies of the following documents:

- the document in the original language
- an English translation of these documents (see below for organisations who can translate your documents).

Your documents must be translated by one of the following:

- Community Relations Commission for a Multicultural NSW Level 8, Stockland House, 175 Castlereagh Street, Sydney 2000
tel: 1300 651 500 (Tollfree)
www.crc.nsw.gov.au
- a translator accredited by the National Accreditation Authority for Translators and Interpreters Ltd (NAATI)

The translator must be accredited as at least a 'professional translator' (previously known as Level 3). Translated documents must display the official NAATI stamp provided to qualified translators; the stamp shows the level of accreditation and the direction in which they're accredited to translate

A list of NAATI-accredited translators in Australia and some overseas locations is available at www.naati.com.au
- interstate office of either the Ethnic Affairs Commission or the Department of Immigration and Citizenship (DIAC)
- Australian diplomatic missions or Australian Educational Centres
- some major banks; you'll need to check with specific banks.

Check under FAQs on UAC's website for other acceptable translations.

What does 'correctly verified' mean?

'Correctly verified' means that your original document has been sighted and the copy has been sworn to be a true copy of the original by one of the authorised people mentioned below.

Documents not verified or not verified correctly

UAC isn't permitted to process:

- documents verified by a Justice of the Peace without a registration number
- documents verified by an International Justice of the Peace
- documents that are just photocopies; that is, not verified
- documents that haven't been correctly verified.

Who can verify copies of my documents?

You can take your original documents in person to UAC or the admissions office of the institution. Your original documents will be copied and handed back to you. UAC will keep the copies with your application. The admissions office will give the copies to you to submit with your application to UAC. There may be a charge for copies made at some participating institutions.

You can also have your documents verified by someone from one of the categories listed below. The categories are for verification in Australia, New Zealand or overseas – check carefully which categories apply to you. - if you are unable to study full-time in 2012 as a consequence of course structure constraints at your institution, attach an explanatory statement and, where applicable, attach a current copy of your academic record.

Part-time enabling course

Students can enrol on a part-time basis in an eligible enabling course, subject to approval by the institution. However:

- they will only be eligible to be considered for an Indigenous–CECS; they won't be eligible to receive an IAS or an Indigenous–CAS
- they won't automatically be entitled to receive an Indigenous–CECS, but are subject to a competitive process as are other eligible commencing students.

In this context 'current higher education course of study' means:

- For continuing students – the course in which you are currently enrolled and intend to enrol in semester 1, 2012
- For commencing students – the course to which you have applied for admission and intend to enrol in semester 1, 2012.

DEEWR

Commonwealth Department of Education, Employment and Workplace Relations.

Direct applicants

People who apply for admission directly to one or more universities (ie don't apply for admission through a tertiary admissions centre), are considered to be direct applicants.

If you're a direct applicant for admission, ES online will ask you to provide your application or reference number given to you by the institution when you applied, if you don't have it you will need to provide information about the course you've applied for.

Domestic fee-paying students

Students who are Australian or New Zealand citizens or permanent residents of Australia who meet the entire cost of their studies through tuition fees.

Domestic fee-paying students who are receiving FEE-HELP are not in a Commonwealth-supported place.

Educational Impact Statement (EIS)

If your application for an Equity Scholarship includes a claim for consideration of a medical disadvantage, you'll need to arrange for an EIS to be completed by a responsible person who can comment on the impact your medical condition/disability has, or will have, on your studies.

Full-time study load

In respect of a scholarship, at least 75 per cent of an equivalent full-time study load (EFTSL) in the scholarship period for which the scholarship is being paid. Check 'Table 6: Full-time study definitions' on page 59.

HECS-HELP

A loan for eligible Commonwealth-supported students to pay their student contributions.

Indigenous

A person who is a member of the Aboriginal race of Australia or a descendant of the Indigenous inhabitants of the Torres Strait Islands.

Internal student

A student who, for the majority of units of study in which they're enrolled in the scholarship period, is required to attend regular classes on campus.

Medical Impact Statement (MIS)

If your application for an Equity Scholarship includes a claim for consideration of a medical disadvantage, you'll need to arrange for an MIS to be completed by a registered health professional who can comment on the impact your medical condition/disability has, or will have, on your studies.

Scholarship period

In respect of a Commonwealth Scholarship, a six-month period from either 1 January to 30 June or 1 July to 31 December.

Merit-based scholarships

In addition to Institution Equity Scholarships (IES), institutions also offer merit-based scholarships to prospective and current students.

Unlike IES, which are awarded to students experiencing financial and/or other forms of educational disadvantage, merit-based scholarships are awarded to applicants on a range of criteria such as:

- school examination results
- academic excellence
- Australian Tertiary Admission Rank (ATAR)
- course/faculty of study
- personal achievements such as:
 - leadership
 - creativity
 - self-motivation
 - communication skills
 - an outstanding ability in sport.
