

Institution-specific requirements for predicted grades

Statements of predicted grades must also meet the following institution-specific requirements.

Institution	Period of study on which predicted grades must be based	Other requirements
Australian Catholic University	student performance up until December 2011, which is 6 months prior to completion of diploma	none
Australian National University	student performance up until January 2012	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ not accepted from IB candidates who undertook their studies in Australia ■ not accepted for some courses ■ must have a 10% buffer added to the predicted grade; for example, where a course normally requires a cut-off equivalent to a total aggregate of 30, a predicted total aggregate of 33 is required. For more information contact ANU Admissions Office at admiss.app@anu.edu.au
Griffith University	student performance up until December 2011, which is 6 months prior to completion of diploma	The total predicted aggregate must be 2 points higher than the total final aggregate required for admission. Contact Griffith University for more information – see Part 2 for contact details.
Macquarie University	student performance up until December 2011, which is 6 months prior to completion of diploma	The total predicted aggregate must be 2 points higher than the total final aggregate required for admission. Contact Macquarie University for more information – see Part 2 for contact details.
Southern Cross University	student performance up until December 2011, which is 6 months prior to completion of diploma	none
University of New South Wales	student performance up until January 2012	none
University of Sydney	student performance up until December 2011, which is 6 months prior to completion of diploma	The total predicted aggregate must be 2 points higher than the total final aggregate required for admission. Contact the University of Sydney for more information – see Part 2 for contact details.
University of Western Sydney	student performance up until December 2011, which is 6 months prior to completion of diploma	none
University of Wollongong	student performance up until December 2011, which is 6 months prior to completion of diploma	none